LOCAL 246 PRESENTS AWARDS SCHOLARSHIPS AWARDED TO TWO

For the first time in the history of the Lawrence Komnick Scholarship Award, Local 246 presented the honor to two graduating high school seniors.

And what makes this year's awards even more special is that one of the proud fathers has a special connection to Lawrence Komnick. William Thomas said his father David (Auto Mechanic — Police) worked with Komnick on the job.

"This award has extra meaning to me because my dad actually worked with Larry for quite a few years and he is also doing roadside repair, which is what Larry did," the younger Thomas said.

William graduated from Massapequa High School earlier this year, where he was in the National Honor Society and very involved in the community through scouting. He was a member of Boy Scout Troop 776 and Venturing Crew 577, where he held

Message from President JOSEPH A. COLANGELO

I hope everyone enjoyed their summer and had a chance to get some quality time with friends and family.

As I'm sure you are all aware that as the temperature starts to cool down, the presidential election will be heating up. Most agree that the average American really starts to pay attention right after Labor Day.

As most of you know, we have never had two candidates running for the highest office in the land, the Presidency of the United States, who are more disliked and distrusted. One theme both parties focus on is the suffering in the middle class, which are working folks like you and I. Both candidates have different approaches as to how they are delivering the message, but the message is all the same. Instead of trying to speak about the pros and cons on each party's approach, I would rather focus on the issues facing middle class families like us.

We need to start with the decline in union membership and its effect on working men and women, all of which began nearly four decades ago, in the mid 1970s-early 1980s. The 1970s began with the end of the Vietnam War, a war that lasted more than 10 years; it was much like the wars we have entered into after 9/11. The 1970s also had the oil embargo when the Middle East cut off oil shipments to the U.S. and it was not uncommon to see people waiting on lines for gas for blocks on end. At that time, union membership was still strong with most having pension and benefits, something uncommon in today's world.

Shortly after Ronald Reagan was elected president in 1980, there was a strike by the air traffic controllers. The government declared it as an illegal strike and the President ordered everyone back to work. If they did not comply, they would be fired. The membership stuck together and President Reagan followed through with his threat and fired everyone on August 5, 1981.

MEDICAL PLAN CHANGES

EMBLEM HEALTH/GHI-CBP BLUE CROSS BLUE SHIELD

Effective July 1, 2016, enhancements were made to NYC Emblem Health/GHI-CBP Blue Cross Blue Shield Plan Medical Plan. All active and non-medicare eligible retiree members enrolled in this plan should have received the letter detailing the changes and announcing that new cards would be sent out. You can view the letter on the Local's website under Benefits and/or News. The changes are regarding $0 co-payments for certain services and $0 co-payments for birth control prescriptions and other preventive prescriptions as listed on emblemhealth.com/city. As of that date, GHI is required by New York State to cover these Affordable Care Act prescriptions and OTC items. These changes do not affect any of the other health plans the City offers.

Most of us in labor refer back to that event as the start of the decline in the labor movement, which was the time that gave businesses the green light to treat their employees the same way government was. It was then that corporations began aggressive anti-union campaigns. That's when we started to see the slow decline of defined pension benefit plans.

I like to share some of my own labor story so you can understand why I am so passionate about protecting our membership.

At around the same time, I was working in an auto parts store/warehouse that had about 12 employees, and I was in a Teamsters local. I had a medical plan and dental coverage that I did not pay for at the time. When I started work for the City, the medical coverage was not the best. In fact, it was hard to even find a doctor willing to take the plan, but by sticking together we improved health care throughout the years.

So what changed? The answer I give is that the world has changed. As the private sector lost manufacturing jobs in part to horrible trade deals like NAFTA, union membership in this country began its steep decline as well. The free trade agreements tied with the support from both parties was supposed to be good for our economy. As companies moved manufacturing plants outside of the United States, so too went good-paying union jobs with them.

Future free trade deals overseas started some of those same corporations chasing cheaper labor around the world. The cost of goods went down and the consumers benefited, but I would counter that those good jobs and wages also went down. What was the upside for middle class families? Nothing other than a big downward spiral.

The frustration and anger you see in this election cycle has been taking root in the policies that were implanted by both parties. I would say that we in the middle have been pandered to and not taken seriously except for our votes. The drain from workers' pockets only filled the pockets of the 1%. The disparity of wealth between the rich and poor is now the greatest since the Great Depression of the 1930s. Let that sink in.

It's time to right the ship and it's time for working people to get respected again. I hope this gives you an idea of what is truly going on and I hope whoever is elected will take a position to help the working men and woman of this county to build a better life for all America, not just the wealthy 1%.

Come this November, please take the time to vote. It's a right we all need to exercise.

I'd like to thank everyone who came out to march in this year's Labor Day Parade. It was a huge success once again, with plenty of members showing off their custom cars, trucks and motorcycles. The yearly event is a chance for all New Yorkers to experience what it means to be a part of the labor movement. This year's Grand Marshal James Callahan, General President of IUOE, and Parade Chair Henry Garrido, Executive Director of DC37, were two examples of what it means to make a lifelong commitment to labor.

Local 246 members are always shining examples of just how strong and important labor is in New York. As you can see from the story on page 9 of this newsletter (see the entire story on our website at www.nyclocal246.org), while the labor movement is dwindling across the country, it remains a force to be reckoned with in New York, where numbers remain strong.

That in part can be attributed to the success we as a labor movement have had by staying united and determined in our ongoing efforts to do what is best and deserved for those who keep our city and state running on a daily basis.

Please join us for the first general membership meeting after our summer hiatus to catch up on all the news. I look forward to seeing you all on Thursday, September 15.

NYS EXTENDS MILITARY SERVICE CREDIT LAW

HONORING OUR VETERANS

In order to honor those who have bravely served our country, and to encourage all veterans to return to New York and continue their public service, the State Legislature this year voted favorably to extend the Military Service Credit Law of 2000 to all veterans who have served in the military.

The new law removed the periods of time in which military service would had to have been rendered in order to receive up to three years of service credit. The new law allows all honorably discharged service members with five years of existing public pension credit to purchase three years of credit for their military service. Previously, state law only allowed World War II, Korean War and Vietnam War vets to purchase pension credits. The new law also deleted other restricting dates.

"Many of our military personnel leave government jobs in order to proudly serve our country. They are our teachers, our police officers and firefighters and our municipal workers," said President Joe Colangelo. "Unions have fought for years to get this bill signed into law allowing all our brave men and women who serve in the military defending our country to purchase this extra time in their retirement plan upon their return to work in New York."

"This is a small price to pay to recognize the training and leadership skills that our veterans received during their honorable military service," he said. "After being passed by the Legislature three times and vetoed twice, the bill was finally signed into law. This credit shouldn't be based on when veterans wore their uniforms, but that they were willing to wear one at all to defend our nation, our freedoms, and our way of life. All veterans deserve this sign of respect."

Colangelo said he encourages any veteran who works for state or local government, or who knows someone who does, to check on this new credit.

Another helpful resource now available to veterans is a mobile app designed to help connect veterans with vital services and programs. Through the New York State Veterans App, users can access a variety of information about state and federal veterans' benefits directly from mobile devices. The app is supported by the New York State Division of Veterans' Affairs and includes sections on healthcare, housing, employment, education, and how to file claims for financial benefits. Veterans or their family members can download the free New York State Veterans App by visiting www.ny.gov/mobileapps.

Distracted Driving

The National Traffic Safety Board (NTSB) has recommended since 2011 for state governments to ban all portable devices except GPS units, without distinguishing between handheld and hands-free sets.

As of earlier this year, City Fleet policy mirrored New York State law that bans handheld cell phone use but allowed hands-free devices. DCAS Fleet's research on the safety of hands-free devices while operating vehicles has lead to a recommendation that New York City take a further step and ban the use of hands-free and Bluetooth devices when actively driving and operating a City vehicle.

According to the Vision Zero, this is already a step being taken by the MTA and TLC for taxis.

"At the most basic level, it is a distraction while driving that reduces the capacity of vehicle operators to drive safely and respond to changing traffic conditions," reads a memo put out by NYC DCAS. "Use of hands-free devices is a distraction and creates unneeded risk and danger."

The report also says that extensive research supports this position. One NHTSA study suggests that operation of a vehicle while using a hands-free phone is the equivalent to operation of a vehicle while legally intoxicated.

Local 246 President Joe Colangelo said members have been notified of this change of policy and are strongly encouraged to abide by the new guidelines.

"I know we all have emergencies while driving. A child calls. A spouse calls. There is always going to be something that requires our immediate attention," Colangelo said. "If you think it is a call that must be answered immediately, you need to pull your city-owned vehicle to the side of the road and take care of the problem before getting back on the road."

In October 2015, the national fleet management association, NAFA, adopted a policy prohibiting the use of handheld and hands-free devices by its employees, contractors and volunteers.

The DCAS memo states: "We recommend this policy be adopted for the City fleet, maintaining only the emergency-related exemptions as outlined. This policy change will continue our leadership in safe driving practices and serve as an opportunity to further educate all drivers on the dangers of distraction."

Colangelo said the new policy reads:

"Do not operate a vehicle while talking on a phone, including handheld, hands-free, or phones affixed to a vehicle. Don't do anything that will interfere with the safe operation of the vehicle, and this specifi- cally includes texting or e-mailing while you are driving. Always pay attention to the road. If you must make a phone call, find a safe place to pull over. Consistent with NY State Law governing hand-held use. The only exceptions are for emergency 911 calls or when operating an authorized emergency vehicle in the performance of official duties."

Colangelo said that with this new policy in place, members should live by a rule of thumb that if it sounds questionable, it probably is.

"It's simple — stay off the phone when you are driving unless there is an undisputable emergency," he said. "This new policy is extremely clear cut and well defined."

Conviction of a cell phone use, portable electronic device use or texting violation will also result in points being added to your DMV driving record.

LABOR UNIONS WANING NATIONWIDE

STAY ROBUST IN NEW YORK

Despite all the attention that has been paid to the union-backed campaign for a $15 minimum wage, the national decline in organized labor has persisted. Still, for three straight years, New York City, the birthplace of the Fight for $15 movement, has bucked that trend, according to a report that was to be released on Monday.

Nationally, fewer than one in nine workers is a union member, a share that has decreased slowly and steadily for more than 15 years, the report says. But in New York City, more than a quarter of workers are unionized, the highest proportion since 2007, according to the report.

"New York continues defying the law of gravity," said Ruth Milkman, a co-author, with Stephanie Luce, of the annual report, titled "The State of the Unions." Milkman and Luce are professors at the Murphy Institute for Worker Education and Labor Studies at the City University of New York.

The share of New York City workers who belong to unions has risen for three straight years — to 25.5 percent in the past year from 21.5 percent in 2012 — the report says. That is more than double the 10.9 percent of workers nationwide who are unionized. The report's authors attribute the countertrend in New York to the rebound of traditionally unionized industries weakened by the recession, including construction and the hotel business.

And it has come about despite limited success in organizing the employees of fast-food restaurants and other workers who began the push for a $15 minimum wage, Ms. Milkman said.

When that campaign started in Manhattan in November 2012, its leaders called for two profound changes: an increase in the minimum wage to $15 an hour and union representation for the workers. At the time, neither demand seemed like anything more than a sky-blue delusion.

But with the help and financial backing of influential unions, the campaign won converts. In New York, Gov. Andrew M. Cuomo, a Democrat, at first balked at supporting the full wage demand. But he eventually embraced it and wound up racing Gov. Jerry Brown, a California Democrat, to sign legislation that would raise the state minimum wage to $15.

various leadership positions in both. He also participated in the Boy Scout National Jamboree and the Venturing Fest, both held at the Summit Bechtel Reserve in West Virginia. He enjoys cooking, white water rafting, archery and camping.

William is working to achieve the rank of Eagle Scout and recently finished his service project — four wooden storage benches for Last Hope Animal Rescue in Wantagh, NY.

William is attending West Virginia University, majoring in Engineering. He is hoping to join the Air Force ROTC.

"I am looking forward to joining my older sister Amy who will be in her junior year at WVU. She is currently pursuing a BA in Criminology with Minors in Forensics and Psychology. I would really like to thank SEIU Local Union 246 for this award and for helping me along in my journey. I'm excited to see what the future has in store for me and to see all that I can accomplish," William wrote before he left for college.

Also receiving his award at the June membership meeting was Peter DeSantis, son of Thomas (Auto Mechanic Diesel — San) and his wife Jane.

DeSantis, from Raritan, NJ, graduated from Immaculata High School in Somerville, NJ, and is attending Seton Hall University. Peter has three older siblings: Tom (26), Will (24), and Maggie (22).

At Immaculata, he was Vice President of the Spanish Honor Society, a member of the National Honor Society, a varsity shot put thrower, a Youth and Government delegate, and a Campus Ministry volunteer.

Peter plans to get involved in many intramural sports at Seton Hall and volunteer activities through their Campus Ministry program.

"I am very grateful to SEIU Local 246 for awarding me the Lawrence Komnick Scholarship. It is truly a blessing for my family and me, and I am excited to put the award money to good use as I begin my studies this Fall semester," he said.

246 SIGN PAINTERS/LETTERERS POINT US IN THE RIGHT DIRECTION

No one who drives or walks through New York City ever really pays attention to how the street signs are made. We all just know that we need those street signs to navigate the boroughs.

Those much-needed signs are the product of Local 246 Painters and Letterers who work in the Department of Transportation.

This summer, Union Vice President Jim Grillo visited the DOT shop in Maspeth to catch up on latest projects the members are working on and to talk about what transpired within the union during the summer.

"It was great to watch them at work and learn about how all the signs throughout the City actually get made," Grillo said.
